Stanford Golf Course

Located west of campus near Junipero Serra Boulevard, the 18-hole Stanford Golf Course has been recognized as one of the finest layouts in the nation for many years. Rating among the top-100 courses in the country by Golf Digest, the par-71 (men; par-73 for women), 6,835-yard home of the Stanford men's and women's golf teams was built in 1929 exclusively with Stanford athletic funds. A flat par-36 front nine and hilly par-35 back nine combine for what is considered one of the most challenging courses in the country. It is designed around some 300 oak trees and across picturesque San Francisco Creek, which divides Santa Clara and San Mateo counties. Of the course's 300 acres, about 180 are grass with the balance combining rough and hazards.

Young, Yet Talented Squad for Stanford Men's Golf in 2002

Senior Philip Rowe

The Stanford men's golf team was hit hard by graduation, but second year head coach Jeff Mitchell is optimistic. Junior Second Team Pacific-10 All-Conference selection Philip Rowe returns for his senior season, along with juniors Jim Seki and Ron Won. The Cardinal lost leadership in Alex Aragon, Jimmy Lee, Eric Dahlberg and Rudy Barreto last year, but have a young and talented squad that looks to provide a promising season.

In Mitchell's first season as head coach, Stanford finished the 2000-01 season ranked 33rd in the MasterCard Collegiate Golf rankings. The Cardinal competed in 14 events with one tournament victory at the Fresno Lexus Classic and notched six top five and 11 top-10 team finishes. Stanford took sixth at the Pac-10 Championships and tied for sixth at the NCAA West Regional. The team then went on to shoot a 593 at the NCAA Championships to tie for 20th overall.

"It was exciting to qualify for NCAA Nationals. The team really pulled together over the last few tournaments and got the job done," said Coach Mitchell.

Team captain Philip Rowe is back for his senior campaign and is looking to lead the squad as he closes out his career. Rowe is the leading returnee after posting a 72.8 stroke average as a junior. His top finish was a win at the Fresno Lexus Classic, where he took top medalist honors with a 208. Rowe recorded nine top-25 finishes on the year and shot a career-low of 68 at the Fresno Lexus Classic and at the John Burns Intercollegiate. A Second Team All-Pac-10 selection, Stanford looks for him to be the top Cardinal finisher this year.

Ned Yetten, who played in one tournament last year, rounds out the senior class. He carded a season-low 76 in the final round of the Nelson Invitational and has a career-low score of 69 as a freshman in the first and third rounds of the U.S. Intercollegiate.

Senior Ned Yetten

The junior class is a talented group with considerable potential. Jim Seki leads the way with a 74.1 stroke average and five top-25 finishes, including a third place finish at the Fresno Lexus Classic. He carded two season-low rounds of 69 at Fresno and in the first round of The Prestige after competing in all 14 events for the Cardinal. Ron Won and George Downing both had decent stroke averages at 77.9 and 75.8, respectively. Won's best finish came at the PING Arizona Intercollegiate, where he tied for 30th. Downing carded a season-low tournament total of 220 to tie for 18th place at The Prestige. Both Won and Downing will be looked upon to turn in solid rounds for the Cardinal this year.

Junior Delano de Windt returns to the team after a two-year hiatus. De Windt was a member of the team in 1998-99, but did not compete in any tournament for the Cardinal.

"It is always fun," said Mitchell. "Fun to see young players develop during their collegiate careers."

Sophomores Blake Mastalir and Brian Sinay will add to Stanford's depth this season. Mastalir competed in two tournaments for the Cardinal in his rookie campaign, and recorded a season-low round of 72 in the first round of the Nelson Invitational. Sinay returns after redshirting last season and in high school was named the Orange County Golfer of the Year three consecutive seasons.

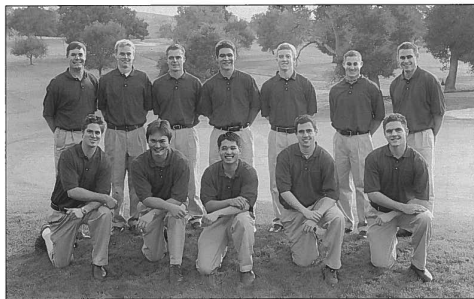

Junior Delano de Windt and sophomore Blake Mastalir

Freshmen Kevin Blue and Pat Phillips come to The Farm with impressive credentials. Blue represented Canada at the World Junior Golf Championships in Osaka, Japan and Phillips had six top-five finishes in national junior events in 2000, including three runner-ups. They both will be carrying on the tradition that Stanford has built with its young golfers.

"We are looking forward to the spring. We have a very competitive schedule and anticipate some strong showings," commented Mitchell.

The Cardinal will open up their fall schedule at Hawai'i and then return to California for the Cleveland Golf Classic in Westlake Village. Stanford will have trips to Oregon and Phoenix before hosting the U.S. Intercollegiate on April 20-21. Oregon State will host the Pacific-10 Conference Championships the following weekend. This year's NCAA West Regionals will be held in Albuquerque, NM, while Ohio State will host the 2002 Championships in Columbus.

at Texas Tech University.

Most recently, Mitchell was inducted into the Texas Tech Hall of Fame last fall.

Mitchell spent the last 10 years as the head women's golf coach at Texas Tech, and in 1998, he became the director of golf for both the men's and women's programs. He was named District Coach of the Year in 1993 and '96 and the Southwest Conference Coach of the Year in 1994 and '96.

For nine years (1976-84), Mitchell was on the PGA Tour, playing in an average of 30 tournaments a year. His work in the golf industry began over 30 years ago at Llano Golf Course in Texas. They played 224 holes and received pledges, which they donated to the Ronald McDonald House of Lubbock. He also gave free junior golf clinics during the summers of 1988-89 in numerous places in Texas, New Mexico and Oklahoma. He was a Life Skills committee member at Texas Tech for two years, and he was part of the NCAA Sub-committed on Academic Integrity in 1998.

He coached 10 All-Americans in his time on the Farm and was named the NCAA Coach of the Year in 1994. ## Championship Par Excellence Stanford Golf Course

by Gordon I. Ratliff

In the 1920s, Stanford students lobbied for a golf course. The golf team was using the Burlingame Course for practice and was coached by the Burlingame pro Harold Sampson. Luckily they found an enthusiast in Almon E. Roth '09, the University Controller, who had become hooked on the game and was a member of the Los Altos Country Club. In February 1929, he persuaded the Stanford University Board of Trustees to provide the land and finance the construction. Then he gave instructions to Al Masters, the manager of the Athletic Department, to hire George C. Thomas Jr. and William "Billy" Bill to design and build the course.

Roth had his own ideas as to the layout of the course. When Bell arrived in March they walked the area. Bell immediately saw the possibility of incorporating San Francisco Creek into the design. To get the land on the other side of the creek, which belonged to the Buck Estate, required a change in the California State Constitution to permit a land swap. Roth flew to Sacramento from the Palo Alto Airport in an open cockpit biplane to lobby for the change.

Construction began in May 1929 with great care to preserve the oak trees. Only 75 had to be removed. At that time water from the irrigation of campus came from Searsville Lake. A lot more water would be required for the golf course, so Felt Lake was enlarged to a capacity of 278,000,000 gallons. By December the course was ready. It opened January 1, 1930. "Dick" Templeton, the track coach who first used starting blocks in track meets, was in the first foursome.

Thomas designed the course and Bell managed the construction. Bell traveled back and forth to Beverly Hills updating Thomas on his progress and getting further instructions. Thomas was ill and died a couple of years later having never seen the results of his effort. A very unique feature of the course was Bell's bunker design. It was very natural with edges that were not well defined.

The course cost $188,000 and enlarging Felt Lake was $190,000. The club house, which cost $54,000, was designed by the architects Bakewell and Brown, who had designed many buildings on campus and were noted for having done City Hall in San Francisco. Club member Wells P. Goodenough, was the contractor.

In 1930 the course was ranked in the top 15 by Dr. H. J. Morlan who had played more than 800 golf courses in the world. Not too long ago it was still ranked among the top 100. The 12th hole is one of the most difficult in Northern California, having four trees down the middle of the fairway. The 18th tee is probably the most picturesque because of the spectacular view of San Francisco and almost the entire Bay Area.

Stanford University The University at a Glance

Stanford University still enjoys the original 8,100 acres of grassy fields, eucalyptus groves, and rolling hills that were the Stanfords' generous legacy.

Stanford at a Glance

On October 1, 1891, the 465 new students who were on hand for opening day ceremonies at Leland Stanford Junior University greeted Leland and Jane Stanford enthusiastically, with a chant they had made up and rehearsed only that morning. Wah-hoo! Wah-hoo! L-S-J-U! Stanford! Its wild and spirited tone symbolized the excitement of this bold adventure. As a pioneer faculty member recalled, "Hope was in every heart, and the presiding spirit of freedom prompted us to dare greatly."

For the Stanfords on that day, the university was the realization of a dream and a fitting tribute to the memory of their only son, who had died of typhoid fever weeks before his sixteenth birthday. Far from the nation's center of culture and uncumbered by tradition or 19th century, the new university drew students from all over the country; many from California; some who followed professors hired from other colleges and universities; and some simply seeking adventure in the West. Though there were many difficulties during the first months — housing was inadequate, microscopes and books were late in arriving from the East — the first year foretold greatness. As Jane Stanford wrote in the summer of 1892, "Even our fondest hopes have been realized."

Ideas of "Practical Education"

Governor and Mrs. Stanford had come from families of modest means and had built their way up through a life of hard work. So it was natural that their first thoughts were to establish an institution where young men and women could "grapple successfully with the practicalities of life." As their thoughts matured, these ideas of "practical education" enlarged to the concept of producing cultured and useful citizens who were well-prepared for professional success.

More than one hundred years later, the university still enjoys the original 8,180 acres (almost 13 square miles) of grassy fields, eucalyptus groves, and rolling hills that were the Stanfords' generous legacy, as well as the Quadrangle of "long corridors with their stately pillars" at the center of campus. It is still true, as the philosopher William James said, during his stint as a visiting professor, that the climate is "so friendly... that every morning wakes one fresh for new amounts of work."

Current Perspectives

In other ways, the University has changed tremendously on its way to recognition as one of the world's great universities. At the hub of a vital and diverse Bay Area, Stanford is an hour's drive south of San Francisco and just a few miles north of the Silicon Valley, an area dotted with computer and high technology firms largely spawned by the University's faculty and graduates. On campus, students and faculty enjoy new libraries, modern laboratories, sports facilities, and comfortable residences. Contemporary sculpture, as well as pieces from the Stanford Museum's extensive collection of sculpture by Auguste Rodin, is placed throughout the campus, providing unexpected pleasures at many turns. At the Stanford Medical Center, world-renowned for its research, teaching, and patient care, scientists and physicians are searching for answers to fundamental questions about health and disease. Ninety miles down the coast, at Stanford's Hopkins Marine Station on the Monterey Bay, scientists are working to better understand the mechanisms of evolution, human development, and ecological systems.

The University is organized into seven schools: Earth Sciences, Education, Engineering, the Graduate School of Business, Humanities and Sciences, Law and Medicine. In addition, there are more than 30 interdisciplinary centers, programs, and research laboratories — including the Hoover Institution on War, Revolution and Peace; the Institute for International Studies; the Stanford Linear Accelerator Center; and the Stanford Center for the Study of Families, Children and Youth — where faculty from a wide range of fields bring different perspectives to bear on issues and problems. Stanford's Overseas Studies Program offers students in all fields remarkable opportunities for study abroad, with campuses in Paris, Kyoto, Santiago, Berlin, Oxford, Florence, and Moscow.

Stanford People

By any measure, Stanford's faculty — which numbers approximately 1,600 — is one of the most distinguished in the nation. It includes 15 Nobel laureates, 4 Pulitzer Prize winners, 21 National Medal of Science winners, 126 members of the National Academy of Sciences, 222 members of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences, 79 members of the National Academy of Engineering, and 26 members of the National Academy of Education. Yet beyond their array of honors, what truly distinguishes Stanford faculty is their commitment to sharing knowledge with their students. The great majority of professors teach undergraduates both in introductory lecture classes and in small advanced seminars.

Millions of volumes are housed in many libraries throughout the campus.

Currently 13,900 students, of which 6,500 are undergraduates, live and study on campus. About 40 percent come from California, but all 50 states and approximately 100 countries are represented as well. Among undergraduates, 44 percent are African American, Asian American, Hispanic or Native American. Like the faculty, the Stanford student body is distinguished. Approximately 10 students apply to Stanford for every place in the freshman class. Seventy-six Stanford students have been named Rhodes Scholars and 52 have been named Marshall Scholars. Nearly 90 percent of graduating seniors plan to attend graduate or professional schools. Stanford students also shine in a tremendous array of activities outside the classroom — from student government to music, theater, and journalism. Through the Haas Center for Public Service, students participate in dozens of community service activities, such as tutoring programs for children in nearby East Palo Alto, the Hunger Project, and the Arbor Free Clinic.

Stanford draws from the best students and faculty throughout the world.

In the athletic arena, Stanford students have enjoyed tremendous success as well. Stanford fields teams in 34 Division I varsity sports — equally divided between men's and women's teams. Of Stanford's 89 national team titles, 39 have been captured in the past 10 years, by far the most in the nation. Thirty-eight of Stanford's athletes and coaches participated in the 1992 Olympics in Barcelona while 49 competed in Atlanta at the 1996 Games — by far the most of any university in the nation. Intramural and club sports are also popular; over 1,000 students take part in the club sports program, while participation in the intramural program has reached 9,000, with many students active in more than one sport.

Looking Ahead

In her address to the Board of Trustees, in 1904, Jane Stanford said, "... Let us not be afraid to outgrow old thoughts and ways, and dare to think on new lines as to the future of the work under our care." Her thoughts echo in the words of former Stanford President Gerhard Casper, who has said, "The true university must reinvent itself every day... At Stanford, these are days of such reconsideration and fresh support for our fundamental tasks — teaching, learning, and research."

San Francisco, with its famous sights and landmarks, is located an hour's drive from campus.

Many Stanford students choose to study abroad in numerous overseas studies programs.

Stanford Athletics Home of Champions

Stanford's baseball team has advanced to the NCAA title game at the College World Series two straight seasons.

Home of Champions. Those are the bywords for the Stanford University Athletic Department.

And for good reason. No athletic department in the country can boast of the kind of success that Stanford has accomplished since the 1980s. NCAA team champions, NCAA individual champions, Olympic medalists. Stanford University athletes have been all over the world capturing championships.

No other athletic department in the country can boast of the kind of success that Stanford has accomplished.

The statistics speak for themselves: Stanford University has won 62 NCAA team championships since 1980, the most in the nation. Cardinal athletes have won 37 NCAA championships since 1990 – again the most in the nation. Stanford has brought home 15 NCAA championship trophies the past five years, including an unprecedented six NCAA team titles in 1996-97. In 1991-92, Stanford athletes took home 29 individual NCAA titles – an NCAA record. Cardinal athletes won 21 individual championships during the 1992-93 season, the second most in history.

Even more impressive is Stanford's string of seven consecutive Sears Directors' Cup titles (1995-01). The award honors the nation's top overall athletic program and with seven straight #1 finishes, it's no wonder Stanford is considered the dominant athletic program in the nation.

In 2000-01, Stanford won an NCAA Team Championship in women's tennis and had 15 teams finish in the top five nationally. The Cardinal also had 20 teams place among the top 10 and 26 among the top 25, to go along with 14 individual national champions and 12 conference titles.

Joining the women's tennis programs with top five national finishes were men's swimming and diving (2nd), women's swimming and diving (2nd), women's water polo (2nd), synchronized swimming (2nd), baseball (2nd), women's cross country (3rd), softball (3rd), co-ed fencing (4th), men's cross country (4th), men's outdoor track (4th), men's basketball (5th), men's indoor track (5th), men's soccer (5th) and men's tennis (5th). Stanford finished with 1,359 points in the Sears Directors' Cup standings to easily outdistance runner-up UCLA's 1,138.

Stanford has now won at least one NCAA team championship for 25 straight years. Cardinal teams have also won four or more NCAA team titles in a single year eight times, an NCAA best.

All totaled, Stanford has won 89 collegiate team titles (79 NCAA championships) and 349 NCAA individual titles. Cardinal women have won an NCAA-best 26 team championships while men's teams have captured 53 NCAA team titles, third best in the nation. Overall, Stanford's 79 NCAA team championships rank second in the nation.

During the past five years, Stanford athletics has captured an amazing 15 NCAA team championships and 17 national titles overall – by far the best in the nation. In the last 10 years (since 1991-92), Stanford has claimed 38 national team championships and 35 NCAA team titles – once again the best in the country.

In 1999-2000, Stanford won the Sears Director's Cup by a wide margin for the sixth consecutive year. Stanford won team championships in 1999 and played in the Rose Bowl for the first time in 28 years while the men's basketball team earned a #1 seed in the NCAA Tournament, tied for the conference title, finished 27-4 overall and held the nation's #1 ranking during the season. The Cardinal baseball team followed by sharing the Pac-10 crown and advancing to the College World Series, marking the first time in history that a school won Pac-10 championships in football, men's basketball and baseball in the same year.

Stanford has also enjoyed unequalled success in Olympic competition.

At the 2000 Summer Games in Sydney, Australia, Stanford University was represented by a total of 34 athletes and coaches. The Cardinal contingent won a total of 10 medals – four gold, three silver and three bronze.

At the 1996 Games in Atlanta, Stanford again placed 49 coaches and athletes on Olympic Teams, including three head United States Olympic coaches (Tara VanDerweir, women's basketball, Richard Quick, women's swimming; Skip Kenney, men's swimming). Stanford athletes accounted for 16 gold medals, one silver and one bronze in Atlanta.

At the 1992 Games in Barcelona, Cardinal athletes earned 19 medals, 10 gold, four silver and five bronze. If Stanford were a country, it would've placed 13th in the world with its 19 medals and ninth with 10 golds. Thirty-eight Stanford-affiliated athletes and coaches participated in Barcelona while 41 members of the Cardinal family took part in the 1988 Olympic Games in Seoul, Korea.

National titles have become quite commonplace in the Stanford Athletic Department. In 1996-97, Cardinal teams set an NCAA record by winning six NCAA team championships in a single academic year: men's and women's cross country, men's and women's volleyball and men's and women's tennis. Nine other teams finished in the top-four nationally, including second place finishes in women's swimming, men's swimming, men's water polo and women's synchronized swimming, third place finishes in women's basketball, baseball and fencing, and fourth place finishes in women's golf and women's water polo.

The 1996-97 school year also saw the Cardinal football team advance to the Sun Bowl, the 18th bowl game in school history, the women's basketball team return to the Final Four, the baseball team qualify for the College World Series and the men's basketball team advance to the Sweet Sixteen of the NCAA Tournament for the first time since they won the 1942 NCAA title.

The following year, 1997-98, Stanford won NCAA team titles in men's cross country, women's volleyball, men's swimming, women's swimming and men's tennis along with a U.S. Collegiate title in synchronized swimming. Also, 14 teams finished among the nation's top five, 19 in the top 10 and 22 in the top 20. Other teams finishing among the top five nationally include men's basketball, which made its first Final Four appearance in 36 years, women's tennis, men's water polo, women's water polo and fencing.

During the 1998-99 campaign, Stanford won one NCAA team title in women's tennis and one national collegiate championship in synchronized swimming. Seven teams placed second in the nation, including men's cross country, men's soccer, men's swimming, women's swimming, men's track and field, men's water polo and women's water polo. Third place finishers included baseball, women's cross country and women's fencing.

Cardinal teams also won 18 conference or regional championships in '98-99 – by far the best performance of any school in the nation. Stanford has now won 121 conference or regional titles since 1991, again the best in the country.

Not only has the Cardinal won an NCAA record six NCAA team championships in a single year (1996-97), but it has also won five NCAA titles in a single year on three occasions: 1991-92, '94-95 and '97-98. Cardinal teams have won four championships in a single academic year on four occasions: 1985-86, '86-87, '92-93 and '93-94.

Stanford has simply dominated in several sports. Under head coach Dick Gould, the Cardinal men's tennis team has won 17

NCAA titles while the women's team has hauled in 12 national titles, including 10 under Frank Brennan. The men's swimming program has won eight NCAA team championships, seven under current head coach Skip Kenney while the men's water polo team has captured eight national titles, seven under current head coach Dante Dettamanti.

The Cardinal women's swimming team has won nine national titles, seven under current head coach Richard Quick. Quick has been the head coach for the United States Olympic Swimming Teams in both 1996 in Atlanta and 2000 in Sydney. Tara VanDerweir, the 1996 United States Olympic Head Women's Basketball Coach, has led the Cardinal to two NCAA championships and five appearances in the Final Four.

Baseball coach Mark Marquess, who was the head coach of the gold medal winning 1988 United States Olympic baseball team, led the Cardinal to back-to-back College World Series titles in 1987 and '88. Men's gymnastics coach Sadio Hamada has led the Cardinal to three NCAA championships, now men's volleyball coach Don Shaw guided the Stanford women's volleyball program to four NCAA titles in the 1990s and men's golf coach Wally Goodwin led his team to the NCAA title in 1994, the first men's golf title at Stanford since 1953. Vin Lananna joined the championship parade in 1996 by leading both his men's and women's cross country teams to national titles. He came back in 1997 to lead his men's cross country team to another NCAA title and in 2000, his men's track and field team won the first national championship in track at Stanford since 1934.

Olympic gold medalists are numerous on The Farm. Former Cardinal standout Bob Mathias won back-to-back Olympic decathlon gold medals in 1948 and '52 while swimmers Pablo Morales, Jenny Thompson, Summer Sanders and Janet Evans have become household names in the swimming world.

Morales, who helped Stanford win three straight NCAA team championships (1985-87), won three medals at the '84 Games in Los Angeles (one gold, two silver) and two more gold medals at the '92 Games in Barcelona. Evans won three golds in the '88 Games in Seoul and one gold and one silver in Barcelona while Sanders won four medals in Barcelona, two gold, one silver and one bronze. Thompson had five Olympic gold medals on her resume prior to the 2000 Sydney Games, tying for the most Olympic gold medals by a U.S. woman. Misty Hyman also added her name to the list of Stanford swimming greats by winning the 2000 Olympic Gold Medal in the 200 meter butterfly to pull off one of the biggest upsets of the Sydney Olympiad.

Some of the great student-athletes in Stanford history include Tiger Woods and Tom Watson (golf), John McEnroe, Roscoe Tanner and Tim Mayotte (men's tennis), Kim Oden and Kristin Klein (women's volleyball), Kristin Földi (basketball/volleyball), Jack McDowell and Mike Mussina (baseball), Julie Foudy (women's soccer), Hank Luisetti, Brevin Knight and Mark Madson (men's basketball), Jennifer Azzi and Kate Starbird (women's basketball), Jim Plunkett, John Elway and Troy Walters (football), Debi Thomas (figure skating), Eric Heiden (speed skating) and the great Ernie Nevers (football), to name a few.

"It's no wonder Stanford University is often referred to as the "NCAA's Champion of Champions."
